

As everyone is aware, the recent hurricanes have caused catastrophic damage and many families in the My Father's World community need assistance at this very trying time in their lives. We have already begun helping Hurricane Harvey victims replace their lost and damaged curriculum at no cost. We also have been encouraged by inquiries from our community as to how they can help these families with their good condition used books.

We are collecting as many gently used My Father's World curriculum sets as possible for those impacted by the unexpected. We will then create complete and fully refreshed replacement curriculum sets with upgraded books and new student materials for those in need. If you have a My Father's World curriculum set to contribute please follow these simple instructions:
